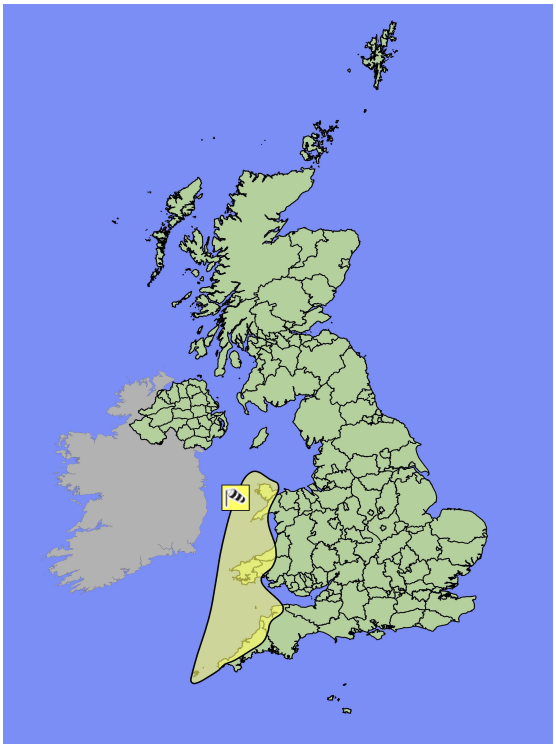
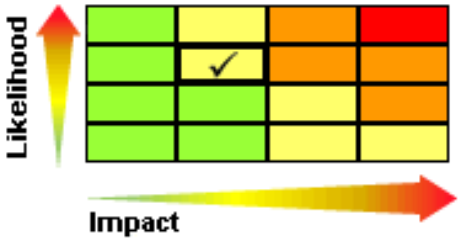
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Strengthening north to northwesterly winds will affect many north facing coastal districts of west Wales later on Tuesday and into southwest England during the early hours of Wednesday. Winds will be especially gusty in association with heavy showers.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Wind

Valid from 19:00 on Tue, 05th Feb 2013 until 06:00 on Wed, 06th Feb 2013

A swathe of north to northwesterly gales and locally severe gales are expected to move south to affect parts of west Wales during Tuesday evening and into parts of Cornwall and northwest Devon overnight into Wednesday, with gusts reaching 65 mph.

The public should be aware of the potential for disruption in coastal districts, with winds strong enough to bring down some trees.
